Whether you work in pharmaceutical manufacturing, computer science, or the laboratory, if validation and compliance are important to you — don't miss this event!

IVT Network, the foremost source for life sciences validation and compliance knowledge, presents its flagship event, the 25th Annual Validation Week October 16-18, 2019 in Las Vegas.

Celebrating 25 years of providing thought leadership in all aspects of validation and quality, including process, facilities, computer software, and much more, this special program will focus on what matters TODAY for industry professionals.

Join us for this SILVER anniversary year to gain knowledge in validation and facility design, leverage data integrity audits to eliminate 483s and warning letter observations, integrate Quality-by-Design Lifecycle in process validation, qualification, and quality systems, and much more, while experiencing the event that keeps industry professionals coming back year after year!

Validation Week had a talented group of presenters and fostered open communication between industry and regulatory agency attendees.

Global Process Owner, Process Validation, Beckman Coulter

Best conference ever! And, I've been to a lot of conferences over the course of my career.

Senior Manager, IT Validation, Thermo Fisher Scientific

The conference was very informative. It covered various aspects of validation. It also provided a good networking opportunity.

Senior Principal Scientist, Fresenius Kabi North America

Great for understanding and staying current with regulatory expectations. Really helped me think about alternative approaches in several quality system areas.

Director, Validation Engineering, Edwards Lifesciences
