

Facilitator - Friend or Foe? on Risk Revolution

Lori Richtman, Nuala Calnan

Tiffany Baker

By

Jun 15, 2021 7:00 am EDT

FACILITATORS. ARE THEY FRIEND OR FOE?

Get ready for some tough-learned lessons from industry on facilitation of risk processes as our team delivers case study trials and tribulations. Series coordinators, Lori and Nuala, invite their guest Tiff Baker to chat about the importance of facilitation in the risk management process and how it leads to the success of a risk assessment.

This episode of Risk Revolution, is part of a monthly series of Voices in Validation, brought to you by the IVT Network. The goal of this series is to advance the maturity of risk management practices within the industry as we cover topics that challenge quality professionals to seek opportunities to improve and advance the ways in which they perceive and manage risk.

Resources episode from this episode

1. Humble Inquiry - The Gentle Art of Asking Instead of Telling Building Positive Relationships and Better Organizations, (2021) Edgar Schein
2. The Surprising Power of Questions, HBR
3. Bias, Heuristics & Risk \(Pt. 1\) on Risk Revolution
4. Bias, Heuristics & Risk \(Pt. 2\) on Risk Revolution

Source URL: <http://www.ivtnetwork.com/article/facilitator-friend-or-foe-risk-revolution>