

Restarting Your Facility – When Disaster Strikes

Jeanne Moldenhauer

By

Nov 24, 2020 8:00 am EST

While the original article on recovery after a disaster, to accommodate bringing up how to go back into production following a natural disaster, there are also concerns with going back into business following the world pandemic with Covid-19. While the conditions in the original article are appropriate and valid, there are also some additional concerns. Depending upon the country in which the facility is located, the time where individuals were not at work varies. In some areas, people worked at home for 5-7 months or longer. In other cases, small numbers of personnel were present...

Source URL: <http://www.ivtnetwork.com/article/restarting-your-facility-%E2%80%93-when-disaster-strikes-0>