

A Spectrum of Importance—Challenging the Concept of Critical/Non-Critical in Qualification and Validation Activities

Deirdre O'Keeffe

Cliff Campbell

Kevin O'Donnell

By

Feb 29, 2016 8:00 am EST

This paper challenges the current approach to classifying process parameters and quality attributes as being critical or non-critical. It discusses how this binary approach is probably overly simplistic, and that it may not adequately reflect science and risk-based thinking. The problems presented by defective medicines and product recalls are discussed.

Source URL: <http://www.ivtnetwork.com/article/spectrum-importance%E2%80%94challenging-concept-criticalnon-critical-qualification-and-validation-ac>