GMP COMPLIANCE—HOW ARE WE DOING? The year 2010 brought another series of GMP non-compliance headlines. Among the most publicized, McNeil Pharmaceuticals (division of Johnson and Johnson) recalled all the liquid infant's and children's formulations of Tylenol, Motrin, and other products made at its Fort Washington, PA, manufacturing facility (1). This debacle has played out with seemingly daily revelations of wrongdoing, and this question of "heading to BMPs" has lately been on my mind. What is of particular concern is that in these days of seemingly incessant corporate mergers, acquisitions,...
